“ Although we lived so very far away..we always managed to get together, either at your house or ours, wherever that may have been. Right from the start you managed to pull in the reins on my wild side and make me use my head for many decisions in our life. You were more than a Sister-in-law to me...you were my best friend! The time I lived with you and your family while I finished Nursing school, not only did you teach me how to cook "ITALIAN", but also how to clean, manage 6 little ones, and the many, many other things that made my life successful. When your brother and I got married and left to follow our dreams...you always made sure to call us and check on how we were doing.. You visited our home many times and I always felt that it was your home as well. Last summer we knew that we may not see you again, either because of Ron's health issues or your own, and the goodbye's were from the deepest part of our hearts!

We love you so very much, how does one go on when their heart is ripped in two from the pain of knowing there will be no more laughs with you??? Whom do I call when something happens or just to hear your voice?? I will look for you in my garden this Spring..I will feel you with me...Give Ma a big hug from us...Love you!!
